

The Rawstrolager

All-Inclusive Reading SAMPLE

by Samantha Tralli for Jane Doe on February 8th, 2022

Date of Birth: November 20th, 1996

Time: 22:24

Location: Redditch, UK 1w56 52n19

S /

. E

Table of Contents

Personal Planets and Essential Chart Points

Sun, Moon, Ascendant/Descendant, MC/IC, Mercury, Venus, Mars

Social Planets

Jupiter, Saturn

Transpersonal Planets

Uranus, Neptune, Pluto

Other Indicators

Chiron, North Node

—
—
—
—

Personal Planets and Essential Chart Points

Sun in Scorpio

Your sun sign determines your core and what you resonate with most obviously. Scorpio is the zodiac sign of intensity.

You'll go through your life being the embodiment of either emotional or spiritual essence. Regardless of which one you are at any given time, to call you a deep person would be an understatement. You tend to take matters to the extreme, the end of your limits. You'll never be satisfied with the mediocre. You've got an all or nothing, mystery solving air about your disposition. Your approach to life is quite serious. Your sensitivity shows itself in two ways: you take things to heart very easily and are quite sensitive on an emotional level, but at an elevated level, you're in tune with the higher/unseen realms. Mars perpetually activates your emotional life, making you very active about your unique spiritual quest. For the undeveloped Scorpio Sun, the emotional world is most important. Once developed, life revolves around your spiritual quest and the unseen world.

Sun in the 4th House

The 4th house is the house of roots, home and family.

You channel everything into your home and family life. When all the efforts you're putting into your home and family are going well, you feel great. When it's not going well or you feel disconnected from them, you feel guilty. Above all, you require the close and warm attention of your family. Your personality may not always shine outward, as you are likely at least somewhat shy and/or introverted. If you had a difficult childhood or home life growing up, the exertion you put into creating your home will be especially intense in adulthood. If your childhood or home life weren't lacking, you're an openly loving and giving adult, and someone who makes the conscious choice not to be emotionally needy. You'll work hard for as long as it takes on building your own foundation. You may feel like you need to sort the foundations of your life before you prioritize anything else. You're a person who wants to see things through efficiently and authentically, which means you won't often opt for shortcuts. You focus on the long-term in all that you do.

Social Planets

Jupiter in Capricorn

Jupiter rules expansion, openness and new approaches. Capricorn is the sign of exhibition.

You're practical and rational. You're an idealist with very high standards, and you'll work your way to the top to accomplish and obtain what you want. Tangibility is everything for you: you need proof that results are possible before you embark upon anything. You use traditional methods when going about your plans and achieving your goals. The tried-and-true way for you is a combination of hard work and utilizing your intelligence. Your desire for security spurs you on to being a fantastic leader. You're optimistic in matters of business, even when it comes to risky investments. Jupiter in Capricorn denotes a strict and sometimes severe, unshakable philosophy and set of beliefs. The more educated you are, the more confidence you have, but your rigid beliefs may limit your success in various areas. This placement of Jupiter challenges you in finding balance between conservative approaches and stepping outside of the box, in all that you do. You'll undoubtedly experience the most luck when your actions are backed by maturity, organization, discipline, and ethics.

Jupiter in the 5th House

The 5th house is the house of leisure, romance and children.

You're caring, warm, fun-loving, and cheerful. These traits show themselves most prominently in your relationships with children and in romance. You probably really don't like the idea of responsibility. Ideally, you answer only to yourself, doing what you want, and when you want. Hobbies and leisure are huge focuses in your life. You make a wonderfully talented teacher; you're patient and you pour love into the learning process. When it comes to dating, you're quite lighthearted. Although you're very loving, you likely don't take romance very seriously. You're probably often in love or at least crushing on someone. Children are a big part of your life, and even if you don't have kids of your own, you may be a parental figure to many.

Transpersonal Planets

Uranus in Aquarius

Uranus rules progress, originality, and disruption.

Uranus was in Aquarius from April 1995 until December 2003.

You're a humanitarian. You were born amidst a very open-minded generation. All of you are visionaries and free-thinkers who are here to provide kindness and generosity, backed with efficiency. You're at the forefront of technological advancement and societal innovation. You understand that the well-being of society equals the well-being of the individual, so your focus is on spurring on improvements on a grand scale. The challenge of Uranus in Aquarius could lie in the fact that there's a lot of stubbornness and extreme attitudes within you. You're so focused on making big changes, that you could become indifferent toward life's more minute details. You're destined to make sweeping changes for the betterment of society, humankind, and the planet. In your ideal world, everyone is living their dreams, and we are all united. Ultimately, you want every person to experience happiness and comfort, so your generation starts a revolution with that as an end goal.

Uranus in the 6th House

You're highly creative. A traditional nine to five work routine isn't something of which you're a fan and working with fine details doesn't appeal to you. You need and love freedom, so you seek out work that allows you such. You likely do best when working on your own, or when you're given ample space to go about your job. Mundane tasks bore you, and you have a knack for putting your own creative spin on them. Quirky and unique jobs provoke your interest, keeping you lively and stimulated. You might enjoy working in fields of science and technology. With Uranus here, you may experiment with different, more out-of-the-box healing techniques and take unconventional approaches to your health. You keep up with modern views of health experts, but you'll always put your own unique spin on your own healing process. You make a great inventor.

Other Indicators

Chiron in Libra

Chiron determines where our deepest trauma and scars lie. It shows us in which areas we can help others overcome similar wounds.

You have the perpetual feeling that the world is a place of imbalance. Your deepest emotional trauma lies in your partnerships. You're quite romantic and emotional and you love the idea of love, but your relationships are often lacking. A common theme seems to be that your partners don't respect you. You may feel like your relationships are one sided, in which you put in all the effort to keep it going. You end up feeling taken for granted, which causes feelings of deep hurt and disappointment within you. Being alone and being in a relationship bring you the same feelings of pain and emotional emptiness. This kind of trauma stems from patterns of actively not seeing your own value and not setting boundaries in partnerships. You feel you must give more than you receive in order to be found worthy, but this isn't the case at all, as you yourself are all that is needed to be worthy of love. When you genuinely begin to appreciate you in your essence, you see a shift in your partnerships, and you are then capable of guiding others who experience the same patterns and trauma themselves.

Chiron in the 3rd House

You've got deep-seated trauma derived from experiences involving communication, processing information and self-expression. You may have difficulty expressing your true intentions. Others may hear your words, but not receive your message. You could tend to spiral into destructive thought patterns, or you may completely avoid all emotional dealings and discussing your feelings. You could fall under one of two extremes: coloring your thoughts with an abundance of emotionality or being overly logical in your thoughts. You could also experience both, but at different times. In rarer instances, this placement could denote problems with one or more siblings. It could be that you don't know how to communicate with each other, resulting in traumatic emotional wounds. The key to resolving the tension caused by this placement is to speak authentically. Realize that your thoughts and opinions are valuable, no matter what. Additionally, learning to balance your intuition with logic is pertinent. As you practice healing in this manner, you develop your own individual form of communication. You must first rid yourself of concern for judgment from others and/or society overall.